Aetas Obscura

The Darkening Age

A Setting for The 2d12 System, Version 2

SkroxiousDM
github.com/SkroxiousDM/2d12GameSystem

Setting Book · First Edition · Anno Domini 500

Contents

Part 1: Prologue

Ch. 1: Using This Book 6
What You Need. 6
How the Book Is Organised. 6
Secrets. 6
Terminology. 6
Notation. 6
Sources. 6

Part 2: The Darkening Age

Ch. 1: The Premise 9
Design Pillars. 9
What the Characters Are. 9
Tone. 9
Campaign Frames. 9

Ch. 2: The World in 500 AD. . . 11
The Mood. 11
Peoples and Tongues. 11
Faith in the Year 500. 11

Ch. 3: Cosmology 13
The Three Spheres. 13
The Mortal Sphere (Kosmos). 13
The Veiled Sphere (Apokryphon). 13
The Outer Dark (Exōthen). 13
The Outer Ones. 13
The Worship-Harvest. 13
How Magic Works. 13
The Secret History. 14
The Watchers and the Nephilim. 14
The War Between Fathers and Children. . 14
The Watchers Who Remain. 14
The Flood and the Sorcerer-Kings. 14
The Eridu Breach. 14
Atlantis, Hyperborea and the Fomorians. 14
The Hunger and the House of Lamia. . 15
Yaldabaoth and the Galilean. 15
Who Knows What. 15

Ch. 4: The Concordat 16
The Clauses. 16
Signatories in 500. 16
Known Non-Signatories. 16

Ch. 5: The Factions 17
The Concord of the Seven Seals. 17
Robes and Stoles. 17
Fronts. 17
The Edged Seal. 17
Wants. 17
At the Table. 18
The Four Sanguine Courts. 18
The Hounds of Set. 18
The House of Lamia. 18
The Strigoi of Dacia. 18
The Court of Jade Breath. 19
The Two Twilight Courts. 19
The Court of Long Night. 19
The Court of the Burning Crown. 19
The Sisters at the Cottage. 19
The Free Folk. 19
The Brotherhood of the Black Pharaoh. 20
The Esoteric Order of Dagon. . . . 20
The Yithian Archive. 20
The Gnostic Apokryphon. 20
The Cult of Mormo. 21
The War of the Two Mothers. 21

Ch. 6: Magi of the Age 22
How They Connect. 22

Ch. 7: Places of Power . . . 23

Ch. 8: Timeline 24
Deep Antiquity. 24
Recorded Antiquity. 24
The Imperial Era. 24
Living Memory. 24

Part 3: Rules of the Hidden World

Ch. 1: Campaign Truths . . . 26
Setting Dials. 26

Ch. 2: Skills of the Age . . . 27
Notes. 27
Ch. 3: Characters of the Age. 28
Origin. 28
Stations. 28
Outcast. 28
Servile. 28
Common. 28
Lettered. 28
Honoured. 28
Allegiance (optional). 29
Playbooks of the Age. 29
Renamed Equipment. 29
Descriptors and Focuses That Fit. 29
Setting Gear. 29
Ch. 4: The Art of Names . . 31
Who Works Magic. 31
The Three Tiers. 31
Paths. 31
Initiate. 31
Scholar. 31
Dabbler. 31
The Traditions. 31
Reaching Beyond Your Domain. 32
Rites. 33
Requirements. 33
Offerings and Sacrifice. 33
Backlash. 33
Ch. 5: The Seven Seals . . . 34
Breaking a Seal. 34
The Breach Clock. 34
The Stylites Clock. 34
The Sword of Damocles. 34
Ch. 6: Worship and Hieratica. 35
Patrons and Their Pools. 35
Patrons in 500. 35
Favour. 35
The Harvest at the Table. 35
Relics and Consecration. 35
Masks and Saints. 36
Ch. 7: Dread and Nemesion. . . 37
Dread. 37
Familiar Horrors. 37
Madness. 37
Nemesion. 37
Sources. 37
What It Does. 37
The Temptation. 38
Cleansing. 38
Ch. 8: The Veiled Sphere . 39
Crossing Over. 39
Travelling by Resonance. 39
Time Runs Strangely. 39
Debts. 39
Knights and Mantles. 39
Thresholds and Iron. 39
The Free Folk at Home. 40
Ch. 9: The Blood-Drinkers. . . 41
Common Rules. 41
Enthralled. 41
The Hounds of Set. 41
The House of Lamia. 41
The Strigoi of Dacia. 41
The Court of Jade Breath. 41
Ch. 10: Oaths and Parley . 42
Forsworn. 42
Swearing an Oath. 42
Ch. 11: Conflicts of the Age. 43
Disputation. 43
Contest of Names. 43
Bargain. 43
Rite Against Rite. 43
Intrigue. 43
Ch. 12: Scene Truths 44
Ch. 13: Woe of the Hidden World 45
Ch. 14: Opposition 46
Statblock Anatomy. 46

Roles. 46
Kinds. 46

Ch. 15: A Bestiary 48

Part 4: Appendices

Ch. 1: Glossary 51

Ch. 2: Quick Reference . . . 52
Five Campaign Truths. 52
Breaking a Seal. 52
Workings. 52
Rites. 52
Offerings. 52
Patron States. 52
Dread. 52
Debts. 52
Stations. 52

Ch. 3: Design Notes 53
Canon Notes. 53

Part 1
Prologue

Chapter 1: Using This Book

The Western Empire is gone — but in the year 500 most people do not quite believe it yet. Roman roads still carry the post. Roman law is still cited in Gothic courts. The Senate still meets. Beneath that brittle surface a hidden world of wizards, blood-drinkers, faerie Queens and starving gods is fighting over the bones of an age. This is Aetas Obscura, the Darkening Age.

This book is a setting book. It gives you the world, its factions, and the rules that make the world behave like itself at the table. It does not replace the core rules.

What You Need

- The 2d12 System, Version 2 — Core Rulebook. Every rule here assumes it: the 2d12 roll, Difficulties, Power and Effects, statuses, Resistance, Momentum and Woe, Truths, and scripted conflicts.
- The core Descriptors, Playbooks and Focuses. This book adds no new Playbooks or Focuses. The chapter Characters of the Age shows how to dress the core ones for the year 500.

How the Book Is Organised

- Part I — The Darkening Age is the world: the premise, the map, the cosmology, the Concordat, the factions, the magi of the age, key places and the timeline.
- Part II — Rules of the Hidden World is the setting's rules: campaign Truths, skills, origins, magic, worship, the Seven Seals, horror and taint, the Veiled Sphere, the blood-drinkers, setting conflicts and Truths, Woe spends and opposition.
- Appendices hold the glossary and a quick reference.

Secrets

Material marked For the Game Master is not for players. The largest secret in the setting, the Secret History (in Cosmology), is printed in full so the GM can decide how much of it is true in their campaign — and how much of it the characters will ever learn.

Terminology

This book uses the house names of the 2d12 System throughout.

Generic	House name	In the fiction
Threat	Wœ	The GM's pool; the weight of the world pressing back
Fate	Tychē	Fortune; the favour of whatever is listening
Momentum	Momentum	The party's shared advantage
Vitality	Sōma	Body
Alacrity	Akmē	Vigour and the peak of action
Mind	Psychē	Mind and memory
Spirit	Pneuma	Breath, will, and the magical potential gods harvest

The pool names are not decoration in this setting. Pneuma is the literal substance the Nephilim harvest from worship, and the substance a magus spends to name the world (see The Art of Names).

Notation

- Difficulties: Easy 12, Standard 15, Hard 18, Formidable 21, Heroic 24.
- Statuses are written name-tier: shaken-2, nemesion-3.
- Clocks are written as segments: a 6-clock, a 4-clock.
- ⋆ marks an ability that costs Refresh, as in the core rules.
- § references point to the core rulebook unless they name this book.

Sources

The canon for this book is the Aetas Obscura Setting Bible and the faction references in `docs/AetasObscura`. The archived 2d12 Version 1 drafts (cultures, social class, backgrounds, ritual magic and sanity) were used as inspiration and rebuilt for Version 2. Design notes close the book.

Part 2
The Darkening Age

Chapter 1: The Premise

> "The world is ending. It has been ending for a hundred years. The legions are gone, the gods are starving, and beneath the cracks in Rome the older things stir. We Sealed Ones have a name for this age: Ætas Obscura, the Darkening Age. We tell our students that we work to hold back the night. We do not tell them that the night has already swallowed half the lamps."
>
> — attributed to Theognostos of Smyrna, Magister of the Inner Seal, c. 497

It is the Year of the Consulship of Patricius and Hypatius — Anno Diocletiani 217, Anno Domini 500. The Western Empire died a generation ago. Constantinople rules a brittle East. Persia waits across the Euphrates. Goths, Franks and Burgundians scrabble over Roman bones. The old gods are dying — but they are not dead, and what is replacing them is not always Christ.

The hidden world is more visible now than it will ever be again. Wizards walk into Senate halls. Vampires hold Roman magistracies. Faerie embassies attend imperial weddings. The Church has not yet finished its long campaign to scour magic from the world, and the Concord of the Seven Seals — the wizards' council of the age — still keeps its hidden library beneath a Bithynian fort.

Beneath the political theatre, something far worse is stirring. The Outer Ones — Hoi Exō, "those from outside" — press against the cracks in reality. A black pharaoh's cult has woken after a thousand-year sleep. Deep Ones swim again in the Tyrrhenian. The Yithians, scholars of time, are recording the end of something.

The Darkening Age is not a metaphor.

Design Pillars

- Worship as fuel. Every named god is a real, active, dangerous being that lives on the worship of mortals. Belief does nothing by itself. Ritual harvests a sliver of each worshipper's own magical potential — their Pneuma — which the being behind the altar uses to extend its life and lends back to its priests. No creed is The Truth; they are all feeding-arrangements dressed as revelation.
- Politics over plumbing. Every faction has factions inside it. Every great power has a successor scheming.
- Cosmic horror with stakes. The Mythos is real and unwinnable on its own terms, but human-scale victories matter. You cannot save the world. You can save your village, your apprentice, your friend.
- Late antiquity as a character. Real places, real polities, real religions, used as the bones of the setting — then twisted.

What the Characters Are

The characters are people who have seen behind the curtain and cannot stop seeing. Typical parties include:

- a Concord cell — an apprentice under the Sword of Damocles, a Stylite, a physician of the School of Alexandria, and a fixer who knows the Senate;
- a Court's retinue — a mortal sworn to a faerie Queen, her bargained-for servants, and a priest who should not be keeping such company;
- hunters — a Fellowship of the Lance veteran, a Marian widow who does not know what answers her prayers, and a scholar who has read too much Hesiod;
- the compromised — a Lamia's thrall who broke free, a Gnostic courier, a Deep One hybrid who has not yet begun to change.

Tone

Play the year 500 as a world of provisional things. Every institution is still standing and every one of them is hollow. The characters can win the scene, the city, even the decade. They cannot make the dark go away. Horror lands hardest when the table cares about something small that the dark can take.

Campaign Frames

Frame	What the characters do
Under the Seal	Concord agents on probation, sent where the Inner Seal will not go itself. Patron: Damaskios or Bœtius.
The Knight's Road	The retinue of a Court's mortal Knight, collecting debts and keeping the Mantle from being stolen.
Two Mothers	Hunters caught in the war between Mormo's sects and the Marian hunters of Isis.
The Long Watch	A cell racing the Brotherhood of the Black Pharaoh toward the end of Sarra's 333-year cycle in 502.
Last Roman	Sub-Roman Britain with Ambrosius Aurelianus: Saxons, Strigoi, the druid-lord Drest, and Long Night's gates.
Ērānšahr	Persia under Kavad and the Mazdakites, with Bondos as patron and a dead high priest giving orders.

Chapter 2: The World in 500 AD

A brief tour, west to east, of the map your players will move across.

Region	Mortal power	Hidden powers most active
Britannia	Sub-Roman warlords; rising Saxon kingdoms	Court of Long Night; Strigoi allied with Picts; Drest
Gaul	Franks under Clovis (Catholic since 496); Burgundians; Visigoths	Burning Crown; Concord chapter at Tolosa
Hispania	Visigothic kingdom (Arian)	Hounds of Set raiding-trails; ancient Iberian Free Folk
Italy	Ostrogoths under Theodoric, ruling from Ravenna	House of Lamia; Concord chapter at Rome; Mormo's catacomb cabals
North Africa	Vandals under Thrasamund (Arian; persecutes Catholics)	Hounds of Set (seat at Carthage); Brotherhood in the deep desert
Balkans	Eastern provinces raided by Bulgars and Slavs	Strigoi homeland in Dacia; Yithian relay at Sirmium
Constantinople	Anastasius I, an old and careful man	Concord's largest chapter; Lamia diaspora; the Inner Seal's eastern chancery
Anatolia and Syria	Chalcedonian and Miaphysite strife	Concord and theurgic schools; Order of Dagon on the Lebanese coast
Egypt	Alexandria seething with religious violence	The Concord's Old Seat; Brotherhood temples in the Faiyum; Marian hunters
Persia	Sasanians under Kavad I and the Mazdakites	The Mobedān; Hounds of Set across the southern border
Arabia and Yemen	Tribal confederations; Jewish Himyar	Djinn of the deep desert; a Deep One enclave in the Gulf
The Steppe	Hephthalite "White Huns"	Court of Jade Breath; the buried Yithian archive at Pnakotus

The Mood

Most people in 500 do not believe Rome has fallen. Latin is still the language of Theodoric's chancery. The consuls are still named each year. It is exactly the right moment for a hidden world in which the old powers are losing their grip and the new ones — Christ, the Outer Ones, the faith not yet born in Arabia — are not yet supreme. Everything is provisional. Everything is up for grabs.

Peoples and Tongues

Characters come from one of the great cultural spheres of the age. Each has a language of learning and a language of the street.

Sphere	Peoples and languages
Romanitas	Italians, Gallo-Romans, Romano-Britons, Africans. Latin; Greek among the learned.
Hellas and the East	Greeks, Anatolians, Syrians, Copts. Greek, Syriac, Coptic, Aramaic.
The Barbaricum	Goths, Franks, Vandals, Saxons, Huns. Gothic, Frankish, Old Saxon; Latin at court.
The Celtic Fringe	Britons, Irish, Picts. Brythonic, Goidelic; Latin among clergy.
Ērānšahr	Persians, Armenians, Sogdians. Middle Persian, Armenian, Sogdian.
The Deserts	Arabs, Berbers, Garamantes, Nubians. Arabic dialects, Berber tongues, Ge'ez.

Faith in the Year 500

- The Church is split three ways: Catholic (Rome and Gaul), Chalcedonian Orthodox (Constantinople), and Miaphysite (Egypt and Syria). The Goths and Vandals are Arian. All of them burn heretics when they can.
- The old gods survive in rural shrines, mystery cults, philosophical schools and Germanic war-bands. Their priesthoods are thinning; their pools are draining.
- Ahura Mazda is the state faith of Persia, where the Mazdakites preach common property under Kavad's protection.
- Judaism thrives from Himyar to Babylon, quietly aware that the god of the Temple has been very busy elsewhere.

For the Game Master

None of these creeds is true. Each is a feeding-arrangement for something that drinks Pneuma. That is the engine of the setting. See Cosmology and Worship and Hieratica.

Chapter 3: Cosmology

The Three Spheres

The hidden world divides reality into three spheres.

The Mortal Sphere (Kosmos)

The world of flesh, iron and stone. Most of the action happens here.

The Veiled Sphere (Apokryphon)

The spirit world. It lies alongside the mortal world like another country, but its shape is not the same. It is vast — much, much larger than the mortal world, perhaps infinite. The Sidhe of the two Twilight Courts rule the reaches nearest to us. Later traditions will call it the Astral, the Dreamlands and the Otherworld. Theurgists and sorcerers walk in it. Time runs strangely there.

The Veiled Sphere touches the mortal world where the two share a resonance. If a place in the Veil is dark and dreadful, it touches a dark and dreadful place in the Kosmos. Five feet over, it might only be sad — and lead to a cemetery on the other side of the Empire.

The Outer Dark (Exōthen)

What lies beyond the edges of the Veil, outside reality. The home of the Outer Ones. Travel there destroys minds. Beyond the Outer Gates it is physically a land of dust, mud and loose shale, cut by gullies, lit by a sourceless light under an enormous black sky without a single star. The plants there poke, scratch and sting. The Court of Long Night keeps the seals on the Outer Gates.

The Outer Ones

These are not gods; the Concord refuses them the word theoi. They are Hoi Exō ("those outside"), Daimones Akosmoi ("the un-worlded ones"), or in Persian usage Drujān, "the Lies."

Designation	Nature
The Throne at the Center (Azathoth)	A blind, idiot vortex at the heart of the Outer Dark. Reality is the dream it dœs not know it is having.
The Gate and the Key (Yog-Sothoth)	All times and places at once. The being one summons to know. To know it is to be unmade.
The Crawling Chaos (Nyarlathotep)	The one that speaks, walks and plays politics. A thousand masks; the Brotherhood worships one.
The Black Goat of the Woods (Shub-Niggurath)	A fertility-horror under many masks. Her Mediterranean near-aspect is Mormo.

A Note on Cthulhu

Cthulhu is not listed among the Outer Ones. He was a Watcher — the first of his order to touch the Outer Dark, and changed by it forever. Through the breach he made, Mormo slipped into the world. He is imprisoned beneath the waves in sunken R'lyeh. Father Dagon is a mask of Cthulhu; Mother Hydra is a mask of Mormo.

The Worship-Harvest

A person who prays, sacrifices or performs a rite gives up a thin filament of their own Pneuma. The being addressed siphons it off and keeps it. The donor never notices: the loss is small and returns by the next day. Multiplied across thousands of worshippers, the daily yield is enormous.

The being spends the harvest on two things: extending its own life, and lending portions back to its priests as the power they call holy. A god with no worshippers harvests nothing, and starves.

How Magic Works

Magic is the imposition of a name on reality. To name a thing in its true tongue is to compel it. The recognised traditions are Theurgy, Goeteia, Magia, Hermetica, Hieratica and — never to be learned — the Black Speech. Each has its own rules; see The Art of Names.

The Seven Seals of Solomon are the Concord's absolute prohibitions. They are not laws in a mortal sense. They are architectural features of reality: to break one weakens the walls between the Sphere and the Dark.

> For the Game Master
> Everything from here to the end of the chapter is the Secret History. The Concord teaches a sanitised version (the Three Spheres, the Outer Ones, the founding by Iamblichus the Elder). The truth is known in full only to the Inner Seal, and in fragments to the Gnostics, the Mobedān, the Twilight Queens and the Yithian Recorder.

The Secret History

The Watchers and the Nephilim

In the ages before history, two hundred Watchers (Egrēgoroi) descended onto Mount Hermon. They took mortal women and fathered the giant-blooded Nephilim. They taught humanity metallurgy, weaponry, cosmetics and — fatally — sorcery. That gift was not charity: teaching mortals to reach toward the supernatural made them harvestable.

The Nephilim are not the Outer Ones and not truly demonic. They are long-lived, beautiful, able to work sorcery without any Seal's protection, and hungry for the harvest. From that hunger comes the entire pagan pantheon. Every god with a priesthood and a few thousand worshippers is — or was — a Nephil wearing a mask: Marduk and Ishtar, Osiris, Isis, Thoth and Hathor, Baal and Astarte, Zeus, Hera, Hermes and Hekate, Mars and Janus, Odin, Thor and Loki, Perun and Veles, Mithras and the Magna Mater.

The War Between Fathers and Children

The Watchers expected the harvest of the new cities to flow up to them. Their embodied, touchable children intercepted it. The war that followed — the First Great Defection — ended with the Watchers destroyed, banished, or bound "in the valleys beneath the earth in chains of iron." The Inner Seal believes those chains still hold.

The victors built their cults on the telling of it, so every pantheon remembers the same war with the names changed: the Titanomachy, the slaying of Ymir, Marduk and Tiamat, Kumarbi and Teshub, the Ennead displacing the Ogdoad, the Devas and the Asuras. The Mobedān alone teach it openly: the daēvas are the Nephilim; the ahuras were the Watchers, and Ahura Mazda is the last of them still aligned with the Light.

The Watchers Who Remain

Set, Ahura Mazda, Yahweh (Yaldabaoth) and Cthulhu are all Watchers who stayed active in the mortal Sphere by very different means. Older traditions call Watchers of great age and power Great Old Ones — a term the Concord uses carefully, because it blurs Watchers with the truly alien Outer Ones.

The Flood and the Sorcerer-Kings

From about 3500 to 1500 BC, terrestrial politics were a war between Nephil sorcerer-kings for worship-pools. The Sumerian Lugal, "big man," once meant Nephil-on-the-throne. The Flood was real, and it ended the Titanomachy: a coalition of Nephilim, Enki among them, drowned the worst battlefields rather than keep slaughtering the population that fed them.

The Eridu Breach

About 2300 BC, seven Sumerian Nephilim tried to open a permanent portal to the Outer Dark. Something enormous began to push through, at a point that corresponds to a marsh near buried Eridu. The Court of Long Night closed it by main force and wove a standing seal of fae-flesh and oath across the gap. It has held for forty-three centuries. It still bleeds. The seven Nephilim are sealed inside the wall, mad and screaming, used as load-bearing material.

This is why Long Night is cruel: every soul Morrigna binds and every debt she buys feeds the wall. Every rite worked to Mormo presses a feather's weight more on it.

Atlantis, Hyperborea and the Fomorians

Long Night is the cold heir of drowned Hyperborea. The Burning Crown is the warm heir of Atlantis, drowned about 12,000 BC. The part of Atlantis that reached for the Outer Dark to survive became the corrupted Atlanteans — Menes in Egypt and Drest in Britain. Between 2000 and 1000 BC the Esoteric Order of Dagon planted Deep One colonies off Ireland, remembered as the Fomorians; the Burning Crown broke them at the Second Battle of Mag Tuired, about 1100 BC.

The Hunger and the House of Lamia

About 700 BC, the Etruscan Nephil-king Larth Caisra of Caere reached into the Dark for a bargain and found the Hunger (Hē Peina), a fragment of Shub-Niggurath's devouring aspect. It wore him like a coat. His daughter, Lamia Prima, bound it to his soul — and during the rite the bound thing raped her. Every Lamia descends from the child she bore. Larth Caisra's body still lies cataleptic beneath the Aventine. If he dies, every Lamia dies. If the binding breaks, the Hunger walks.

Yaldabaoth and the Galilean

The Inner Seal holds under triple oath that Yeshua of Nazareth was a mortal Gnostic Magus — perhaps the most gifted theurge in history — whose ministry was a public campaign against Yahweh. He lost, and was killed through the Temple priesthood. Over three centuries Yahweh stole him: the canon, the creeds and the Trinity redirected Yeshua's following into Yahweh's pool. In 500 that pool is the only one in the Empire that is growing, and Yaldabaoth is bloated on it — too swollen to watch everything happening on earth.

Other Nephilim have noticed. Isis now feeds in secret behind the mask of Mary Theotokos. Others ride lesser Saints. A bloated Yaldabaoth who one day notices parasites in his own house is a scenario with no good outcomes.

Who Knows What

Faction	Knowledge
Inner Seal	All of it. Sworn never to publish.
Concord at large	The Nephilim doctrine in outline. Not Eridu, not Lamia, not the bound Watchers.
Twilight Queens	Everything but the Lamia origin; Morrigna suspects.
House of Lamia	The Domina Maxima knows. Larthia Velthuri dœs not — yet.
Mobedān	The Nephilim and the war; taught openly as ahura against daēva.
Brotherhood	The Nephilim and Eridu. They want the breach reopened.
Gnostics	That Yaldabaoth is the enemy; not Eridu or Lamia.
Yithian Recorder	Logged, with citations.
Ordinary mortals	Nothing. They sing hymns to gods who are dying.

Chapter 4: The Concordat of Hidden Powers

In 287 BC, after a war between the Etruscan vampire-houses of Rome and the wizard-college of Alexandria nearly drowned Italy, a treaty was struck: the Concordat of Hidden Powers (Concordia Potestatum Occultarum). Long Night calls it the Pact of the Long Night, because its drafter was Morrigna.

The Clauses

- Hospitality. A host must protect any signatory guest under their roof.
- Parley. A truce under the white-and-black banner cannot be broken without forfeiting standing.
- Duels. Disputes between signatories may be settled by champion-combat, often by the Courts' Knights.
- Weregild. Blood-prices are codified for harm done to non-combatants.
- Outside-Threat. All signatories must defend reality against the Outer Dark. The Brotherhood exists to undermine this clause.
- Mortal Sovereignty. Hidden powers may influence mortal kingdoms but may not openly rule them. Often violated; often punished.

Signatories in 500

- The Concord of the Seven Seals
- The Court of Long Night
- The Court of the Burning Crown
- The House of Lamia
- The Hounds of Set (the Houndmaster of Carthage alone)
- The Strigoi of Dacia (Bessos the Undying in person; Anthousa Skoteine speaks for the elder lineage)
- The Yithian Archive (as Observer)
- The Mobedān of Persia (since about 380)
- Ambrosius Aurelianus, Freeholding Lord of Sub-Roman Britain

Known Non-Signatories

- The Brotherhood of the Black Pharaoh (refused; in breach by definition)
- The Esoteric Order of Dagon (signed about 800 BC; lapsed)
- The Court of Jade Breath (will not deal with the West, but is treated as if it had signed)
- The Church (forbidden to treat with "principalities of the air"; individual bishops do, deniably)

The Concordat's clauses have rules weight; see Oaths, Guest-Right and Parley.

Chapter 5: The Factions

Each entry gives an overview, the people who matter, what the faction wants, and how to use it. Tags are suggested power and weakness tags for statting its members (see Opposition of the Hidden World).

The Concord of the Seven Seals

The worldwide council of wizards (Concordia Septem Sigillorum), founded in the 3rd century BC by the philosopher-magus Iamblichus the Elder out of Alexandria's secret theurgic school. Its spiritual home, the Old Seat, lies beneath the ruined Serapeum. Its working library and its business moved to the Castrum of Drepanum in Bithynia.

Office	Holder
Magister Sigillorum	Theognostos of Smyrna, a bureaucrat with a deciding vote
The Inner Seal	Seven eldest theurgists, among them Damaskios of Damaskos and Markos Drepanios
Gatekeeper of the Outer Dark	Rashidun of Edessa; screens returning emissaries for taint
The Black Wand	Unofficial. Licensed to break the Seals to save the Concord. Old Eberezdes of the Cyrenaican mountains.
Stylites	The ash-cloaked enforcers, captained by Loukia Theoktiste
The Edged Seal	Nine relic-blade bearers; eight seats filled

Robes and Stoles

Apprentices wear undyed wool. Full members wear a blue stole; the Inner Seal purple; a century of service red. A silver braid marks a master of Pharmakeia (alchemy), a gold caduceus a master of Iatreia (healing), a copper chevron a doctorate from Alexandria, Athens, Edessa or Nisibis. Stylites wear ash-grey cloaks woven not to hold blood.

Fronts

The School of Alexandria (medicine, astronomy), the Academy of Athens (philosophy), the School of Nisibis (theology and Syriac learning) and the School of Toulouse. Each is a real school with real students, and each hides a door into the Veil.

The Edged Seal

After the Eridu-wall scare of 488, the Inner Seal armed nine trusted Stylites with consecrated relic-blades — the only weapons in its armoury that reliably wound a Nephil in masquerade or a Brotherhood magister mid-summoning. Each blade answers one sworn bearer; abandoned, it goes inert for a year and a day. Bearers swear never to draw on a mortal who has not first raised a hand against the Concord, never to lie about the blades within the cadre, and never to go beyond reach of a sworn second.

Blade	Cuts through · Bearer
Lumen Stili	Deception and glamour · Loukia Theoktiste
Vinculum Fractum	Thrall-bonds · Daniel of Edessa
Os Iusti	False oaths · Yusuf ibn Harith
Specula Pacis	Cœrcion · Theodora of Thessalonike
Cor Lupi	Flesh that should not regenerate · Brigida of Glevum
Vox Silentii	Yahweh's protections · Yohannan the Syrian
Crinis Noctis	The membrane between Spheres · Markos Drepanios
Ferrum Sapientiæ	The lie that a thing has no name · Aryapad of Tisfun
The Ninth	Unforged. The Inner Seal cannot agree on its source.

Wants

To keep the glass of reality whole, keep the Secret History buried, and keep its own politics from killing it first. It is bureaucratic, paranoid and old. Even a justified act can be twisted into a Seal violation by an Inner Seal member with a grudge.

At the Table

Tags: oath-bound iron · library of four schools · "the Seals forbid it" · slow to act · enemies on the Inner Seal. Hooks: the Sword of Damocles; a mentor who is secretly the Black Wand; a Brotherhood mole on the Inner Seal; a forgotten Eighth Seal.

The Four Sanguine Courts

Four entirely different species share the name "blood-drinker" (haematopotēs, sanguisuga). They despise being conflated. Rules for all four are in The Blood-Drinkers.

The Hounds of Set

An Afro-Levantine vampire civilisation born from a corruption of the Set-cult in the late Eighteenth Dynasty, now a shadow nobility of the Vandal kingdom. True form: taller than mortals, dog-jackal heads, bat-ribbed wings folded under the skin, a second jaw inside the first. They wear flesh-masks — personae. Their culture is a cult of thirst-discipline: status is the ability not to feed. The Red Pharaoh, six thousand years old beneath Karanis in the Faiyum, is secretly a thirst-addict.

Rank	Who
Apex	The Red Pharaoh
Inner Circle	The Thirteen Lords of the Outer Sand, retired gods of forgotten cults
Nobility	Geilamir the Pale (magister officiorum at Carthage); Lady Cyria of Sabratha
Soldiers	Jackal-Wardens, half-vampires in bronze jackal masks
Servants	Cup-Slaves (calicarii), addicted to Hound saliva

They are paralysed by thresholds: a peasant's blessed doorway can stop a duke. They are at undeclared proxy war with the Concord in Sicily, loathed by the Burning Crown and by the Fellowship of the Lance, a Roman-Berber militia that recruits the half-turned. Use them as the most visible hidden faction — early-tier antagonists.

The House of Lamia

An Etrusco-Greek patrician vampire society that feeds on emotion. Their public myth descends them from the Libyan queen Lamia; the truth is Larth Caisra and the Hunger. They are the most human-passing of the Courts: they age, marry and breed almost like mortals. Lamiae are raised as ordinary patrician children and not told what they will become. Their first feed is always fatal and is their rite of passage. They own magistracies, shipping, brothels, oil presses, theatre troupes and several Senate seats. Court language: Etruscan.

Branch	Feeds on	Weakness
Velthuri	Lust and intimacy	Cannot touch one who truly loves and is loved, nor tokens of true love
Malvora	Fear	Harmed by genuine courage
Scæva	Despair	Sickens in the presence of genuine hope

The Domina Maxima lies powerless in Rome under the curse of Markella of Tarentum, who slept with her, bore a son, and bound her hunger on dying. Her eldest daughter Larthia Velthuri runs the House from the Aventine — cool, brilliant, terrifying. Markella's son is Markos Drepanios of the Inner Seal. Use them as mid-tier antagonists who almost never fight openly.

The Strigoi of Dacia

The undead corpse-vampires of the Carpathians, nearly exterminated three centuries ago by Hierokles of Thessalonike's hunting manual Peri Strigōn, written at the House of Lamia's request. The survivors are the most cunning monsters in the world by sheer filtering. Bessos the Undying, Lord of the Carpathian Halls, is something inhuman stuck in human shape since before Troy; rumour says he is turning fallen Stylites. Anthousa Skoteine, "the Shadowed," works magic like a wizard and passes by candlelight as a Greek aristocrat in Constantinople. A band of Strigoi is a scourge. Use them for classic dread.

The Court of Jade Breath

A secretive East Asian court of the Yangtze and Yellow River valleys that feeds on breath, and can kill across a courtyard. It deals only through Sogdian middlemen who do not know whom they serve. Not a signatory — but treated as one, because a Sasanian magister who insulted a Jade Breath envoy in 478 was found three years later with his lungs full of jade dust. Use them for Silk Road paranoia and assassination mysteries.

The Two Twilight Courts

The faerie powers of the Veiled Sphere. Each Court is ruled by three Queens — Maiden, Queen and Crone. Each appoints a mortal Knight, the only being who may kill outside the Court's own membership: a Queen cannot personally kill anyone not bound to her Court by birth or bargain. The Knight bears a Mantle of borrowed power that returns to the Queen at his death. There is no Faerie King. The Stone Throne, a blood-fuelled altar, passes between the Courts at the solstices.

The Court of Long Night

The Court of cold, predation and the killing edge; heir of Hyperborea. Its fae are Brumales, the Winter Sidhe. Its capital is Arctistor, a fortress of black glass in the northern Veil. Its secret purpose: it keeps the seals on the Outer Gates. Every cruel bargain feeds that war.

Role	Holder
Crone	An Chailleach Bhéara, "She Who Was." Closer to a Mythos entity than to her children.
Queen	Morrigna, Queen of Hoarfrost and the Slow Knife. Once mortal; drafter of the Concordat; loathes inaccurate folktales.
Maiden	Niamh of the Pale Hand, who shows signs of Outer taint
Knight	Edica the Wolf-Marked, a broken Pannonian kept alive because he is useful
Sworn	The Cat Sith, Grimærex, the Leannan-Sidhe, Jenna of the Green Teeth, the Redcap, Rawhead

Long Night is weak to cold iron — iron worked by mortal smiths. It holds a long alliance with the Mobedān and tolerates the Hounds of Set as a counterweight to the Brotherhood.

The Court of the Burning Crown

The Court of growth, heat, fertility and life; heir of Atlantis, later dressed in the bull-courts of Crete and the green ladies of Etruria. Its fae are Aestivales, the Summer Sidhe. Its capital is the Hall of Beaten Gold. It waxes from mid-winter to midsummer.

Role	Holder
Queen	Aigle, Queen of Lions and Olives, Morrigna's twin. Hates Markos Drepanios for the death of her daughter Heliodora in 497.
Maiden	Hesperia — cautious, fragile, brilliant
Knight	Theodoros Sebennytos, an Egyptian soldier in love with someone he cannot have
Sworn	The Eldest Gruff and his warrior-clan; Korrikōs, Talōs, Tirnos

It touches mortals through dreams, harvests, Bacchic rites and violent love affairs, and holds a blood-grudge against Deep Ones. It is the more approachable Court; its bargains bind no less.

The Sisters at the Cottage

On the border where the Veil thins sits a cottage. Both Crones live there, sharing a hearth, a loom and a cauldron — one with black thread, one with gold. A third presence, a Mother of Pus, sometimes weeps in the corner. To visit it on purpose is to have signed something you do not know you signed.

The Free Folk

Fae of neither Court: satyrs, nymphs, the Erlking's Wild Hunt, Gwynn ap Nudd, the djinn, the kobolds of the mines, the lares and lemures of every Roman house. A wizard can keep his own small household of them for milk, honeyed barley-bread and silver.

The Brotherhood of the Black Pharaoh

The primary Mythos cult, worshipping Nyarlathotep as Nephren-Ka, the Black Pharaoh, waiting beneath the Sahara. They are not nihilists but eschatologists: the world must be scoured, and the faithful few will serve in the new dispensation. They operate openly at buried Sarra in the Libyan desert, in the Faiyum as a heretical Coptic order, and in rural Bithynia; elsewhere in cells.

Rank	Who
The Voice	Sennefer of Bahariya, a fallen Coptic priest
The Seven Masks	Black Pharaoh, Bloated Woman, Howler in the Dark, Crawling Mist, Beast of the Beyond, Skinless One, Faceless God
Mystai	Initiated sorcerers, scholars, defectors
Signati	The Marked, branded with the Yellow Sign
Servants	The Shoggoth-Born

They recruit with power for the powerless, knowledge for scholars, vengeance for the wronged and escape for the addicted. Most members are sympathetic and do not know they serve the end of the world. Sarra's 333-year cycle ends in 502. Use them as the long-arc enemy, felt before seen.

The Esoteric Order of Dagon

An ancient Philistine and Phoenician cult of Father Dagon and Mother Hydra, made of Deep One hybrids. Strongholds: Sidon, a depopulated stretch of the Adriatic, and the rebuilding rump at Innis Mor in Ireland. Hybrids pass as human until middle age, then change — bulging eyes, slick skin, gills — and become functionally immortal in the sea between 40 and 70. Towns that host a chapter prosper; towns that resist suffer storm, empty nets and disappearances. Use them for the village that is doing too well.

The Yithian Archive

A faction outside time. The Great Race of Yith record the history of every species by swapping minds with great thinkers for years at a time. Mortals deal only with their embassy: Eudokia of Antioch, a nine-year-old Greek girl who carries the Great Library in her mind — the Recorder. She walks under the Concordat as Observer; insulting her draws a penalty so severe that even Morrigna defers. The Brotherhood would dearly love to capture her. Use her sparingly. Run a mind-swap once.

The Gnostic Apokryphon

The scattered, deliberately headless survival of the tradition Yeshua actually founded — a few hundred initiates in circles named for the original cells, hiding inside the very churches that hunt them. They agree on four things: Yahweh is the enemy; Yeshua's praxis is reproducible; souls are trapped in matter by design; concealment is sacred.

Circle	Seat
Magdalene	Alexandria and Antioch (about 40)
Thomas	Edessa and the Persian frontier (about 80)
Philip	The Faiyum (about 30)
Samaritan	Sebaste; tends Simon's grave (about 20)
Sethian	Wandering since 367 (about 15)
Valentinian	Hidden in three patriarchal sees (about 25)
River-Cell	The marshes south of Tisfun (about 50)

Their workings — Anabasis, Lytrosis, Apokalypsis, Sigesis — are in The Art of Names. They have no combat magic. A PC seen with one is a heretic in the eyes of a church that burns heretics. Notables: Ioannes of Edessa, who writes monthly to Damaskios as "Symeon the wine-merchant"; the Anonymous Magdalene, seventy-three, who means to attempt the full Ascent before she dies; the Witch-of-the-Reeds.

The Cult of Mormo

The Mediterranean and northern-forest face of the Black Goat. Mormo is no Nephil and does not weaken: she feeds on plague, famine, displacement and rot, and the Darkening Age has fed her well. Her sects share no hierarchy, connected beneath the soil like toadstools. Her method is parasitism: a sect grows inside a kinder fertility faith and replaces it. With the pagan hosts collapsing, her sects now creep inside Christianity — and meet their oldest enemy. The eve of the vernal equinox is the Day of Blood.

Role	In a sect
High Matron or Patron	Leaders who rule through dupes
Priests	Transfigured by communion: horns, fur, sores
Speaker of the Mother	Recruiter who hides her marks
Shepherd of the Get	Keeper of beasts and horrors
Metragyrtai	Wandering couriers and assassins
The Brood	Initiated faithful, living double lives
The Rabble	Civilians whipped to violence
The Reborn	Goats of the Mother, caprine and mad

The War of the Two Mothers

Isis has hated Mormo since the first Nile dynasties. Losing her temples, she slipped into the mask of Mary Theotokos and feeds quietly on Yahweh's pool, spending every drop on hunting Mormo. Her Marian hunters — widows, virgins, ascetics, grieving mothers — work rites that really work, because Isis loans their own harvested Pneuma back to them. If Yahweh notices, a war between gods runs through every congregation from Alexandria to Tolosa. Mormo's most dangerous dream is to make him look.

Chapter 6: Magi of the Age

Twelve figures — some living, some dead, some legendary — woven into the year 500.

Figure	In 500
Solomon ben David	Dead fifteen centuries. The mythic First Sealer. His signet ring lies in the Temple Mount rubble; it can bind an Outer Power — or release one.
Iamblichos of Chalkis	Dead since 325. Reformed theurgy into the three tiers of Cantrip, Operation and Theurgy. His unfinished rites surface in caches.
Hypatia of Alexandria	Martyred 415, having re-set the Second Seal the night before. The Concord could have saved her and chose not to. Her ghost walks the Old Seat.
Damaskios of Damaskos	42, Inner Seal, head of the Athenian house. Brilliant, prickly, fond of wine. The ideal patron. Fears the day emperors call philosophy sedition.
Bœtius of Ravenna	20, junior Concord asset at Theodoric's court. Naive enough to ask for help, senior enough to pay. His fall in 523 need not happen.
The Master of Tyana	Apollonios, dead 400 years, claimed by Concord, Brotherhood and Gnostics. His staff is lost in a shrine.
Simon of Sebaste	Dead 440 years, killed by the Brotherhood, not by Peter. The Samaritan Circle tends his grave; workings there always succeed.
Myrddin Emrys	7, the Concord's ward at Drepanum, terrified of his dreams. He will become the wild prophet of Caledon.
Ambrosius Aurelianus	50, Concord-trained battle-mage and lord of Cær-Gloui. Signatory in his own right. Will never forgive the Concord for taking Myrddin.
Gildas	An infant in the north. Not a wizard: the Recorder's Subject 307, whose book will be what history believes.
Mug Ruith	The blind Wheel-Druid of Valentia Island. Outside every jurisdiction. His price is never gold. He met Simon the night before Simon died.
Bondos the Reformer	Publicly dead two centuries; preserved in a grove south of Nishapur. Teacher of Mazdak; quiet Concord ally.
Kartīr of the Seven Heavens	Dead high priest preserved in the Chinvat Lens at Adur Gushnasp. The Mobedān take his orders. He was a persecutor, and has had two centuries to grow stranger.

How They Connect

Boetius, Myrddin and the estranged Ambrosius are all downstream of Damaskios. Tyana, Simon and Mug Ruith are the traditions the Concord failed to absorb. Bondos and Kartīr mirror Damaskios and Hypatia in dark glass. Gildas is the reader of your campaign.

Chapter 7: Places of Power

1 Seats of the Concord

1.a The Old Seat, Alexandria

Pillared halls beneath the demolished Serapeum, warded so that "only a being of godhead may pass." Mostly empty. Hypatia's ghost — or a thoughtform of the Seat itself — walks there.

1.b The Castrum of Drepanum, Bithynia

A Roman coastal fort fronted by a small school. Beneath: laboratories, the Hall of the Inner Seal, the executioner's chamber, and the vault of the Sword of Damocles.

1.c The Ephesian Keep

A hidden third sub-crypt beneath the Basilica of St. John. Eleven sealed Brotherhood bindings, a pair of Edged-Seal blades in rotation, a watch of six Stylites, and the Mask of Sennefer's Predecessor, which the Voice has hunted for forty years.

1.d The Pillar of the Stylite, Syria

A real pillar-saint prays on top. Beneath him, unknowing, new Stylites spend their first year in a cell.

2 The Veiled Sphere

2.a Arctistor

Long Night's fortress of black glass and bone-white pillars. Gates in Iceland, the Carpathians and the high Caucasus.

2.b The Hall of Beaten Gold

The Burning Crown's sunlit palace of gold and olive-wood on a mountain that does not exist. Gates in Crete, Etruria and the Lebanon.

2.c The Cottage of the Crones

One small hut on the border of the Outer Dark. Almost impossible to reach.

3 Places of the Enemy

3.a Sarra, the Deep Sahara

The Brotherhood's temple-city, buried under a hundred feet of sand. It wakes in cycles of 333 years. The cycle ends in 502.

3.b The Drowned Library, off Sidon

A pre-Phoenician complex held by the Order of Dagon, with tablets older than Sumer. Their contents are not safe to read.

3.c The Eridu Breach

A marsh in the Kosmos; a bleeding wall of fae-flesh in the Veil, held by a phalanx that has never broken.

3.d Pnakotus

The Yithian archive in the far southern desert. End-of-campaign material.

Chapter 8: Timeline of the Hidden World

Deep Antiquity

- c. 30,000 BC — Hyperborea and Atlantis flourish.
- c. 12,000 BC — Both drown. Long Night and the Burning Crown rise from them; the corrupted Atlanteans reach for the Dark.
- c. 8000–4000 BC — The Watcher–Nephilim War, the First Great Defection.
- c. 3500 BC — The first cities. The first Yithian observations.

Recorded Antiquity

- c. 2300 BC — The Eridu Breach. Long Night closes it and has held the wall since.
- c. 1500 BC — Nephren-Ka rules Egypt and worships Nyarlathotep openly.
- c. 1100 BC — Second Battle of Mag Tuired; the Fomorians are broken.
- c. 950 BC — Solomon binds the demons of the Levant by ring and seal.
- c. 700 BC — Larth Caisra and the Hunger; the House of Lamia begins.
- 287 BC — The Concordat is sealed.
- c. 250 BC — Iamblichus the Elder founds the Concord.
- 47 BC — The Library of Alexandria burns the first time.
- c. 30–33 — Yeshua's ministry and death. The Apokryphon is born.
- 60 — The Brotherhood assassinates Simon of Sebaste.
- c. 96 — Death of the Master of Tyana.

The Imperial Era

- c. 293 — Kartīr dies and is preserved in the Chinvat Lens.
- 325 — Death of Iamblichos; his three tiers become canon.
- c. 380 — The Mobedān accede to the Concordat.
- 391 — The Serapeum is destroyed; the Old Seat is sealed.
- 415 — Hypatia is murdered. The Inner Seal does not intervene.
- 431 — Ephesus proclaims Mary Theotokos. Isis has found her mask.

Living Memory

- 476 — The last Western emperor is deposed.
- 482 — The Hades Vault affair. The Concord owes Long Night a debt not yet called.
- 488 — Theodoric invades Italy. The Eridu-wall scare: the first Edged-Seal blades are forged.
- 493 — Theodoric kills Odoacer.
- 496 — Clovis is baptised.
- 497 — Markos Drepanios kills Heliodora at Arctistor. The Stylites take Myrddin from Dyfed.
- 498 — Kavad is restored and embraces the Mazdakites, quietly advised by Bondos.
- c. 500 — Gildas is born. Play begins.

For the Game Master

Foreseen — do not show players. 502: Sarra's cycle ends and the Brotherhood wakes its legions. 523–524: Bœtius falls and is executed. 527: Justinian ascends. 528: Mazdak is executed; Bondos survives. 529: the pagan schools close and Damaskios flees to Persia. 541: the Plague of Justinian. c. 573: Myrddin gœs mad at Arfderydd. None of it has to happen.

Part 3
Rules of the Hidden World

Chapter 1: Campaign Truths

Every 2d12 setting starts with Campaign Truths: facts that are always true and that the rules lean on. Aetas Obscura has five.

1 · The Gods Are Hungry
Every rite of worship harvests Pneuma from those who take part. When a character joins a real rite — a Mass, a sacrifice, a festival, a sincere prayer at an altar — they lose 1 Pneuma, which returns at their next rest. Belief changes nothing; attendance dœs. See Worship and Hieratica.

2 · Names Have Power
Magic is the imposition of a name on reality. A true name learned through Discover, a text or a bargain counts as a power tag on every roll against its bearer, and some workings cannot be attempted without one.

3 · The Seals Are Walls
The Seven Seals are part of reality's architecture. Breaking one has a cost whether or not anyone sees. Every campaign has a Breach clock. See The Seven Seals.

4 · Thresholds and Oaths Hold
A blessed threshold, a guest-right, a parley banner and a sworn oath are forces, not customs. The hidden world obeys them, and breaking them is a wound. See Oaths, Guest-Right and Parley.

5 · The Dark Is Patient
Exposure to the Outer Dark leaves nemesion, a taint that dœs not heal with rest. The Outer Ones are unwinnable on their own terms. Human-scale victories still count. See Dread and Nemesion.

Setting Dials

Choose one setting for each dial at Session Zero.

Dial	Settings
Visibility	Open (wizards in the Senate, færie embassies at weddings — the default) · Veiled (rumours only) · Buried (the hidden world is truly hidden)
The Secret History	All true (default) · Partly true (the GM picks what is false) · Contested (even the Inner Seal is guessing)
Horror	Pulp (Dread costs reduced by 1 tier) · Dark (default) · Bleak (nemesion cannot be cleansed below tier 1)
The Church	Divided (default) · Militant (heresy accusations are a Wœ spend at 1 instead of 2) · Tolerant

Chapter 2: Skills of the Age

The core skill list is renamed for the year 500. Ratings, the pyramid and default pools are unchanged.

Sōma	Akmē	Psychē	Pneuma
Athletics	Shoot	Notice	Will
Brawl	Stealth	Investigate	Persuade
Fight	Ride	Letters	Intimidate
Endure	Craft	Mechanica	Empathy
Wayfaring		Medicine	Mysteria
		Deceive

Core	Becomes	Covers
Survival	Wayfaring	Roads, deserts, forests, weather, foraging, tracking, the sea by coast-light
Drive/Pilot	Ride	Horses, mules, camels, chariots, carts, and small boats
Lore	Letters	Law, history, theology, philosophy, languages, heraldry, the Classics, tactics
Tech	Mechanica	Siegecraft, locks, aqueducts, Hero's automata, Greek fire, astrolabes
Arcana	Mysteria	Magic of every tradition, ritual, spirits, the Veil, and priestly rites

Notes

- Letters is the tactics skill for Battle conflicts, as Lore is in the core.
- Mysteria is the anchor for the Adept. A priest of Hieratica uses Mysteria too; the rite is the same skill whether the hand behind it is a god or the magus himself.
- Mechanica is rare. In the year 500, a character with Mechanica +3 is a famous engineer.
- Literacy is not a skill. Characters of the Lettered and Honoured stations read; others read only if they have Letters +1 or more.

Chapter 3: Characters of the Age

Make characters with the core rules: a Descriptor, a Playbook and a Focus. This chapter adds an Origin (culture and station) and an optional Allegiance, and shows how the core options look in the year 500.

> I am a Haunted Savant who Remembers What Was Forgotten — a Syriac-speaking freedman of Edessa, indebted to the Concord.

Origin

Choose a cultural sphere (see The World in 500 AD) and a station. Then write one Origin tag that combines them: Alexandrian physician's daughter, Gothic spear-oath man, runaway colonus from the Lucanian estates.

- The Origin tag replaces one of the two tags your Playbook gives. Your tag count doesn't change.
- You speak your sphere's street language and any languages your station gives.
- Your station gives a trait and a burden. The burden works like a weakness tag the GM can compel.

Stations

Roman law divides people into honestiores, the honoured, and humiliores, the humble. The humble can be beaten, tortured for testimony and sent to the mines. Barbarian and Persian law draw the same line in other words.

Outcast

Beggar, bandit, heretic, runaway, actor, gravedigger.

- Languages: the street tongue only.
- Trait — Beneath Notice. Once per scene in a crowd, Create the Truth Nobody Looks at Beggars without paying for it.
- Burden — Without Law. No court will hear you. Persuading anyone in authority is one step harder.

Servile

Slave, freedman, colonus bound to an estate, household servant.

- Languages: your own, and your master's.
- Trait — Below Stairs. Once per session, take a free bonus die on a roll to learn something from servants, slaves or a household.
- Burden — A Claim on You. Someone — a master, a patron, an estate — has a legal claim on you, and may press it.

Common

Craftsman, soldier, sailor, farmer, shopkeeper, guard.

- Languages: your own, and one trade tongue.
- Trait — Common Cause. Among working people, Persuade starts at Standard even when a stranger would face Hard. Once per session, their help gives the party 1 Momentum.
- Burden — Humilior. The law may beat or torture you. In a dispute with your betters, you lose.

Lettered

Merchant, scribe, notary, clergy, town councillor (curialis), physician.

- Languages: your own, Latin or Greek, and one more. You read and write.
- Trait — Letters of Introduction. Once per session, produce a document or a name that gets you through a door: Create the Truth Expected and Admitted for the scene.
- Burden — Obligations. Taxes, tithes, guild dues or a bishop's orders follow you everywhere.

Honoured

Senator, Gothic or Frankish noble, Persian āzād, bishop of a great see.

- Languages: your own, Latin or Greek, and two more. You read and write.
- Trait — Dignitas. You cannot lawfully be tortured. Once per session, demand an audience with anyone short of a king and receive it. A household retinue counts as gear that takes no Load.
- Burden — Honour and Rivals. Insults must be answered. Scandal follows you, and your enemies sit at court.

Allegiance (optional)

Name one faction your character is tied to, and how.

Tie	What it means
Sworn	A member: a Concord apprentice, a Court's servant, a Stylite, an initiate. You get a Contact in the faction and access to its places.
Indebted	You owe it. You get one favour now, recorded as a Debt (see The Veiled Sphere).
Hunted	It wants you. Start with a 4-clock They Close In the GM ticks with Wœ.

The Call. Once per session, the GM may have your faction call on you. Answer at real cost and gain 1 Tychē. Refuse and the tie frays: Sworn becomes Indebted, Indebted becomes Hunted.

Playbooks of the Age

Core playbook	In the year 500
Bellator	Legionary veteran, bucellarius, Gothic warrior, gladiator, Fellowship of the Lance hunter, Stylite, a Court's Knight
Furcifer	Tomb robber, spy of the agentes in rebus, cutpurse, assassin, smuggler, Lamia-house thief
Savant	Philosopher, physician of Alexandria, Concord scholar, astrologer, lawyer, engineer, Mobedān scribe
Interlocutor	Rhetor, envoy, merchant of the Silk Road, courtier, bishop's secretary, conman
Explorator	Hunter, horse-archer, sailor, caravan guide, Saxon raider, desert scout
Adept	Magus of a tradition: theurge, goēs, Mobed, Hermeticist, druí, priest of Hieratica, Gnostic initiate

Renamed Equipment

Use the Fantasy options wherever the core lists genres. The Adept's conduit is a staff, wand or ring of Solomon's pattern; the faith made solid talisman is a phylactery, an Isis-knot or a relic fragment.

Descriptors and Focuses That Fit

All core Descriptors work. Some Focuses read differently in the year 500.

Focus	Suits
Hunts the Things in the Dark ◈	Stylites, Fellowship hunters, Marian widows
Walks Between Worlds ◈	Fæ-touched, Veil-wanderers, the Recorder's escorts
Made a Bargain With Something Old ◈	Knights, Lamia thralls, anyone with a Debt
Is More Than Human ◈	Nephil-blooded, half-turned Hounds, Deep One hybrids before the change
Remembers What Was Forgotten	Concord scholars, Gnostic couriers
Carries the Weight of a Crown	Gothic and Frankish nobles, Ambrosius's captains
Was Born Behind the Wheel	Rename it Was Born in the Saddle: horse-archers, charioteers of the Hippodrome
Knows Everyone Worth Knowing	Senators, bishops' secretaries, Lamia clients

Setting Gear

These gear tags join the core lists.

Item	Load	Tag and effect
Cold-iron blade	1	cold iron. Harms Long Night fæ normally even when they are Hard to Kill; counts as a killing method against some.
Phylactery or amulet	0	warded. Once per session, reduce one supernatural harm by +1 tier when you Resist.
Blessed salt, holy water	0	consecrated (patron). Draw a threshold line; Hounds and Strigoi must pay 1 Wœ to cross it.
Lead curse tablet	0	defixio. A Gœteia focus: +1 to curse workings against a named target.
Papyrus grimoire	1	text of power. Lets a Scholar use Letters for workings (see The Art of Names).
Kyphi and censer	1	the fragrant smoke. +1 segment on the first roll of any Rite.

Item	Load	Tag and effect
Relic fragment	0	steeped in worship. Strigoi weakness; may count as a killing method; a Hieratica priest gains +1 Favour once.
Stylite ash-cloak	0	dœs not hold blood. Armour 0; +1 to Intimidate against those who know what it means.
Seal-ring	0	Solomon's pattern. +1 Power on workings that bind or banish.

Chapter 4: The Art of Names

To name a thing in its true tongue is to compel it. Every magus of the age — theurge, goēs, Mobed or druí — works by that law. What differs is the tongue, the price, and which Seal it puts at risk.

This chapter builds on the Adept playbook. The Adept's Domain, scope Difficulties, working cost, backlash and Ritual ability all apply as written. A tradition adds where the power comes from, what it is good at, and what it costs.

Who Works Magic

- Adepts are magi. Choose a tradition and a path when you take the playbook. Your Domain must be one your tradition teaches.
- Anyone else can be a Dabbler (see Paths), or perform a Rite they have been taught or have read.
- Priests of any playbook can work Hieratica if they hold Favour with a patron (see Worship and Hieratica).

The Three Tiers

Iamblichos divided the art into three tiers. They match the core scopes.

Tier	Scope	In play
Cantrip	Minor, personal (Easy 12)	Light a lamp, warm water, sense a lie in a room. Often no roll.
Operation	Significant to Spectacular (15–21)	A single working: a roll of Mysteria, 1 Pneuma.
Theurgy	World-shaking (Heroic 24)	Always a Rite run as a progress clock.

Paths

How you learned shapes how you work.

Initiate

Taught by a master in a lineage. The default for Adepts.

- You may learn the tradition's Rites from your teacher without a text.
- Your lineage protects you: once per session, reduce a backlash status by 2 tiers.
- You have a master. The master has expectations.

Scholar

Self-taught from texts: the Greek Magical Papyri, a Hermetic codex, a stolen Concord notebook.

- With a text of power in hand, you may roll Letters instead of Mysteria for workings and Rites.
- You can learn a second Domain from a text instead of taking ⋆ Second Domain — but only for workings done with that text in hand.
- No one taught you the safeguards. Your backlash statuses are +1 tier.

Dabbler

Any non-Adept with a charm, a curse-tablet, a grandmother's song.

- Write a narrow Charm tag: the evil eye, knot-magic for fair winds, a love-spell from the papyri.
- You can attempt Cantrips and Significant workings within the Charm. Roll Mysteria (or Letters with a text).
- Each working costs 2 Pneuma, and any doubles cause backlash, success or not.
- You can perform Rites you are taught (see Rites).

The Traditions

Each entry gives the tradition's Domains, its Strength, its Price, and the Seals it endangers.

Theurgy

The Concord's tradition · Neoplatonic ascent

Domains: light, warding, the soul and its ascent, the spheres and stars, healing, divination, banishing.

Strength — The Safe Way. Theurgy is slow, ceremonial and safe. When you take backlash from a Theurgy working, reduce it by 1 tier.

Price — Ceremony. An Operation needs a minute of invocation. In a scripted conflict, a Theurgy working can't be your first action in an exchange.

Seals at risk: rarely any. That is the point.

Goeteia

Name-binding sorcery · the Greek Magical Papyri

Domains: binding, curses, compulsion, the dead and the chthonic, love and hate, summoning daimones.

Strength — The Name Is the Leash. With a true name, Goeteia workings against its bearer get +1 Power.

Price — Chthonic Powers. Goeteia borrows from below. Whenever you use Effort on a Goeteia working, the GM gains 1 Woe.

Seals at risk: III (the Mind), IV (Bondage), V (the Border). Goeteia breaks Seals easily.

Magia

The fire-and-word of the Mobedān

Domains: fire, truth and the Lie, purity and purification, exposure of the dead, driving out daēvas and drujān.

Strength — Against the Lie. Magia workings against Outer-touched beings, Nephilim in masquerade, or anyone who has just lied get +1 Power.

Price — Purity. After touching a corpse, spilled blood or the Outer taint, you cannot work Magia until you spend a scene purifying yourself with fire, water and prayer.

Seals at risk: rarely. Magia is distinct from the Concord but respected by it.

Hermetica

The science of correspondences

Domains: alchemy (pharmakeia), astrology, correspondences and sympathy, transmutation, automata, talismans.

Strength — Preparations. In downtime, store one working in a potion, talisman or star-chart. Make the roll then; release it later as a free action with no further roll. You may hold as many as your Mysteria rating.

Price — Few Survive. Anyone literate can dabble. Hermetic backlash is +1 tier, and a Scholar's adds another.

Seals at risk: II (Shaping), VI (the River).

Druidry and the Northern Arts

The druí, the seiðkona, the galdr-singer

Domains: weather, beasts, shapeshifting by spirit-help, prophecy, battle-fury, the dead, the land.

Strength — Spirit Allies. You may work through a spirit of the place. Once per scene, a working done with the help of a local spirit costs 0 Pneuma.

Price — Geis. Write a geis weakness tag (never eat the flesh of a hound; never refuse a guest). Break it and you cannot work magic until you atone, and the GM gains 2 Woe.

Seals at risk: II (Shaping), V (the Border).

In the year 500, druidic and Saxon magic are, in practice, the same art in different tongues. Christian Britons call both devilry.

Gnostic Praxis

Yeshua's working · the Apokryphon

Domains: only four, and they are fixed.

- Anabasis — the ascent through the archons, naming and refusing each. The most dangerous working: a failed Anabasis Rite kills the initiate in their sleep.
- Lytrosis — liberation. Frees a bound or enchanted soul: clears enthralled and Lamia thrall-bonds, and weakens Brotherhood bindings.
- Apokalypsis — unveiling. Reveals a Nephil in masquerade, a Lamia feeding, a magister mid-rite. Cheap, and easy to detect.
- Sigesis — silencing. Hides you from Yahweh's notice for hours or weeks. Painful.

Strength — Praxis, Not Patron. Gnostic workings never feed a god. They can't be detected by Hieratica, and are immune to the patron effects in Worship and Hieratica.

Price — No Sword. The Apokryphon has no combat magic. Attack effects from Gnostic workings are one step harder. You must learn Sigesis first.

Seals at risk: none — but a church that burns heretics.

The Black Speech

The language of the Outer Ones · never chosen

No one takes the Black Speech as a tradition. It is learned by accident and kept by temptation.

Once you know even a syllable, you may speak it into any working: gain +2 Power, and take nemesion-1 that cannot be Resisted. Speaking it in a Rite ticks the Breach clock.

Seal broken: VII (the Outer Dark), every time.

Reaching Beyond Your Domain

You may attempt a working outside your Domain if it fits your tradition. It is one step harder, costs 2 Pneuma, and any doubles cause backlash.

Rites

A Rite is magic run as a progress clock: 6 segments for Hard, 8 for Formidable, 12 for Heroic. Adepts with the Ritual ability can run any working as a Rite. Anyone else can perform a specific Rite they have been taught or have read.

- Each roll takes an hour, a night, or a day, as the Rite demands. Success fills segments equal to Power. Failure fills none and advances a danger clock the GM names.
- Untrained: a character without the Ritual ability adds +4 segments to the clock, and any doubles cause backlash.
- Assistants: each trained assistant can Help (core rules). Untrained assistants just hold the candles — but they still feel the harvest.
- Place: in a Thin Place or on ground holy to the power invoked, remove 2 segments.
- Results can create Site or Region Truths, as the core Ritual ability allows.

Requirements

Every Rite names its requirements: a time (dawn, a new moon, the solstice), a place, materials, and an offering. Missing one makes the Rite one step harder or impossible, as the GM rules.

Offerings and Sacrifice

Offering	Effect
Incense, wine, bread	The ordinary price. No bonus.
Your own blood	Lose 2 Sōma. +1 bonus die on one Rite roll.
An animal	+1 segment on every successful roll. The GM gains 1 Wœ.
A willing human life	+3 segments at once. Breaks the First Seal. Every participant takes nemesion-1.
An unwilling human life	+4 segments at once. Breaks the First and Fourth Seals. Every participant takes nemesion-2. The GM gains 3 Wœ.

Backlash

On backlash the GM chooses a fitting status — burned-2, drained-2, hollow-2 — or rolls on this table.

d12	Backlash
1	The lamps gutter. Every flame, water-clock and fine mechanism nearby fails for the scene.
2	Ink runs. Your text of power is damaged: blotted until mended.
3	Drained. Lose 2 more Pneuma.
4	Nosebleed. Bleeding-2 (Sōma).
5	Wrong target. The effect lands on the nearest wrong person.
6	Echo. The working repeats at the worst moment later in the session.
7	Witnessed. Something in the Veil saw. The GM gains 2 Wœ.
8	The mark. A visible sign — frost on the skin, a smell of myrrh — for a day.
9	Voices. Shaken-2 (Pneuma).
10	Lost time. An hour passes that you don't remember.
11	A door ajar. The Breach clock ticks once.
12	Something answers. A spirit, a fæ or worse takes an interest. Name it.

For the Game Master

The Concord's magi "disrupt fine craftsmanship over time": oil lamps gutter, water-clocks stop, ink runs. Let a Concord household be full of broken clocks and candles. It is a tell the Brotherhood knows to look for.

Chapter 5: The Seven Seals

The Concord teaches that reality is a sealed vessel and magi are its glaziers. Every great violation weakens the glass.

Seal	Prohibition and examples
I · Of Slaying	Thou shalt not kill a man by the art. A killing working; a human sacrifice.
II · Of Shaping	Thou shalt not unmake the shape a thing was born in. Turning a man into a beast; flesh-crafting.
III · Of the Mind	Thou shalt not enter the mind of another and take what is not given. Mind-reading against the will; memory theft.
IV · Of Bondage	Thou shalt not bind the will of another to thy own. Compulsion; thralldom; love-spells.
V · Of the Border	Thou shalt not call back the dead, nor reach across the river. Necromancy; raising shades.
VI · Of the River	Thou shalt not swim against the river of time. Changing what has happened; prophecy that alters its own end.
VII · Of the Outer Dark	Thou shalt not seek what lies beyond the Outer Gates, nor open them, nor call through them. The Black Speech; summoning an Outer thing.

Breaking a Seal

When a character breaks a Seal — by working, Rite or the Black Speech — four things happen, whether or not anyone sees:

1. The GM gains 2 Woe.
2. The Breach clock ticks 1 (the Seventh Seal: 3).
3. The character takes nemesion-1 (the Seventh Seal: nemesion-2).
4. If a Concord magus is within a day's ride, or the working is divined, the party's Stylites clock ticks.

Spirits, Nephilim and the Courts are not bound by the Seals. Mortal magi are.

The Breach Clock

Every campaign tracks a Breach clock of 12 segments for the region where play happens. It measures how thin the walls between Sphere and Dark have grown.

Segments	The world
3	Animals sicken. Dreams are shared. Add the Truth Uneasy Nights to the region.
6	Thin Places open where none were. Outer-touched things walk at night. Dread costs +1 tier.
9	Something comes through. The GM builds an Outer-touched Great opposition and sets it loose.
12	An Outer Gate stands open. The Court of Long Night will come — and its price will be terrible.

Sealing the walls takes great Rites, Long Night's help, or Solomonic relics. Each success removes 1–3 segments.

The Stylites Clock

When the party's magic draws Concord attention, tick a 6-clock The Stylites Come. At 6, they arrive with a warrant. A magus caught breaking a Seal is a paranomos and goes to trial. The verdict is almost always death by the sword.

The Sword of Damocles

A first-time offender — especially a young one — may be placed under the Sword of Damocles: probation under a sponsoring master. While under the Sword:

- you have access to Concord libraries and help, through your sponsor;
- your sponsor may call on you at any time (an Allegiance Call you cannot refuse);
- any further Seal violation is death, and your sponsor must carry it out.

The Sword is the classic young-wizard hook. Start an Adept under it if the player agrees.

Chapter 6: Worship and Hieratica

Belief is irrelevant. A cynical priest in good standing with a well-fed god can work wonders that a sincere outsider cannot. Hieratica is borrowed power: a ration of the harvest a patron has gathered and chosen to lend back.

Patrons and Their Pools

Every patron has a pool state that reflects how well it is feeding.

State	Effect on Hieratica
Starving	Workings one step harder. Favour refreshes by 1 per session at most. The patron is desperate and will ask terrible things.
Waning	Workings normal. Favour refreshes by 1 per session.
Steady	Workings normal. Favour refreshes to 3 each session.
Waxing	+1 Power on workings. Favour refreshes to 3 each session.
Bloated	+1 Power on workings and Favour refreshes to 5 — but on any doubles, no one answers: the working fails and the Favour is spent.

Patrons in 500

Patron	State	Notes
Yahweh (Yaldabaoth)	Bloated	The only pool that grows. Not watching closely.
Isis, as Mary	Waxing	Hidden. Spends everything on Mormo.
Lesser Saints	Varies	Some are Nephilim riding Yahweh's flow.
Ahura Mazda	Steady	The last Watcher aligned with the Light.
Veles	Waxing	Harvesting the Sklavenoi frighteningly fast.
Odin, Thor, Frigg	Steady	Germanic war-bands still feed them.
Loki	Waxing	At large in Frisia, honest about what he is.
Hekate	Waning	Admits what she is to her cult.
Mithras	Waning	The legions are gone.
Zeus, Apollo, the Olympians	Starving	Some live on as patricians. Hermes is a banker.

Favour

A priest tracks Favour with one patron, from 0 to 5. A starting priest-character has 2.

- Spend 1 Favour to power a Hieratica working instead of paying Pneuma. The patron's state applies.
- Gain Favour by serving: a significant service (+1), a great festival or a new congregation (+2), recovering a relic (+1).
- Lose Favour by offending the patron, serving a rival, or failing a duty it set.
- At 0 Favour, you can still pray. Nothing answers.

Hieratica workings use Mysteria and the patron's portfolio as the Domain. Priests who aren't Adepts use the Dabbler limits but pay with Favour.

The Harvest at the Table

The first Campaign Truth says joining a rite costs 1 Pneuma. Most of the time it is colour. Make it bite when:

- a character goes to worship to keep a cover — and needs that Pneuma tonight;
- a festival harvests a whole city, and every character inside loses 2;
- a patron Waxing on a cult the party wants to break is also feeding on them.

Relics and Consecration

An object steeped in a patron's harvest is consecrated (patron). Any god's consecrated object troubles Strigoi and Hounds, because each has been soaked in worship they cannot abide. A Mithraic token works as well as a cross.

Masks and Saints

A priest who prays to a Saint may be feeding a Nephil without knowing it. When a priest's patron is secretly a mask, the GM may reveal it at any moment — and the priest's Favour carries over, because the power always came from the same place.

For the Game Master

The Marian hunters are Hieratica priests of Isis who believe they serve the Mother of God. Their pool is Waxing, they spend Favour freely against Mormo, and they never learn the truth unless the players tell them.

Chapter 7: Dread and Nemesion

The hidden world wounds the mind in two ways. Dread is what horror does to you now. Nemesion is what the Outer Dark leaves behind.

Dread

When a character meets something the mind was not made for, the GM names an incoming status and its tier. Resist it with the core rules.

- Fear and revulsion — a risen corpse, a Hound's true face, a sacrifice — inflict shaken. Resist with Pneuma.
- Forbidden knowledge — a page of the Drowned Library, a geometry that should not close — inflicts unmoored. Resist with Psychē.

Exposure	Tier	Examples
Unsettling	1	A fresh corpse in a sacred place; a Lamia's eyes in lamplight
Horrifying	2	A Hound unmasked; a Strigoi rising; a Reborn goat-thing
Appalling	3	A Deep One hybrid mid-change; a human sacrifice; a page of Black Speech
Mind-breaking	4	A Shoggoth-Born; a Nephil's true shape; a Yithian mind-swap remembered
Beyond	5	The land beyond the Outer Gates; the Eridu wall bleeding
Outer	6	An Outer One manifest. Resisting can't reduce this below tier 3.

Familiar Horrors

Once you have Resisted a particular horror — Hounds, the risen dead, Deep Ones — the same kind costs 1 tier less next time. Familiarity is its own kind of damage. Note it as a tag: seen Hounds unmasked.

Madness

At tier 6, shaken or unmoored Takes you Out as the core rules describe, and the Scar it brings is a Madness. Roll or choose.

d12	Madness
1	Fugue. You wake far away, days later.
2	Hysteria. Laughter or weeping you cannot stop when the horror returns.
3	Phobia. Of the thing, or something near it: water, mirrors, goats.
4	Paranoia. One ally is lying. You're sure.
5	Mania. You must understand. You keep the page.
6	Catatonia. When it returns, you freeze for a volley.
7	Voices. Someone speaks only to you. Sometimes usefully.
8	Obsession. A single goal now outranks your Belief.
9	Compulsive rite. Salt lines, counted prayers, washing.
10	Amnesia. A day, a name, a face — gone.
11	Watched. You feel eyes from the Veil, always.
12	Revelation. You learned something true. Gain one true name and nemesion-1.

Each Madness becomes a weakness tag. It can be rewritten into a power tag with Advancement, as the core allows.

Nemesion

Nemesion is the Outer taint. It is a lasting harmful status, tiers 1–6.

- It does not recover with rest. It stacks normally.
- It cannot be Resisted when you choose it (the Black Speech, a Mormo rite, a Brotherhood pact).
- It hinders nothing directly — at first.

Sources

Breaking a Seal; speaking the Black Speech; taking part in a sacrifice; feeding an Outer thing; walking beyond the Outer Gates; long contact with the Outer-touched.

What It Does

Tier	Effect
1	Dreams of a starless sky. Nothing visible.
2	A mark: an ache in old wounds, a smell of wet stone, eyes that catch the light. Write it as a weakness tag.

Tier	Effect
3	Animals shun you. The Gatekeeper's tests and Magia's fire reveal you.
4	Outer things know you. The GM may spend 2 Wœ to have the Dark act through you for one action.
5	The change begins: the gills, the horns, the sores, the hunger. You are Hard to Kill — and hunted.
6	Lost. The character belongs to the Dark and becomes an NPC.

The Temptation

At nemesion-2 or more, you may lean on the Dark for any working or Rite roll: gain +1 Power and +1 tier of nemesion. The Brotherhood recruits with exactly this.

Cleansing

Nemesion is removed only by:

- a Lytrosis working (Gnostic) or a Magia purification by fire, each removing 1 tier per successful working, at a Difficulty of 12 + 3 per tier;
- a great Rite at a holy place (2 tiers);
- a bargain with Long Night, which knows the Dark better than anyone (any number of tiers, at a price).

For the Game Master

Use nemesion to make the cosmic stakes personal. A character at tier 3 is a problem for every faction at once: the Concord wants to test them, the Brotherhood wants to recruit them, and Long Night wants to buy their debts.

Chapter 8: The Veiled Sphere

Crossing Over

There are three ways in:

- A gate — a known door: Arctistor's gates in Iceland, the Carpathians and the Caucasus; the Hall of Beaten Gold's in Crete, Etruria and the Lebanon; a hidden door in each Concord school. No roll, if you have the key or the right.
- A Thin Place — where the Spheres share a resonance. A Mysteria roll at Standard (Hard without the Truth Thin Place).
- A working — opening the Veil yourself is a Dramatic working (Hard 18) for an Adept whose Domain touches spirits, travel or the Veil.

Travelling by Resonance

The Veil is not mapped by distance but by feeling. To reach a place, describe what it feels like and roll Mysteria or Empathy. Success brings you to a door that touches your goal. Failure brings you somewhere that feels the same: the sad place you meant, five feet over, leads to a cemetery on the other side of the Empire.

Time Runs Strangely

When the party returns to the Kosmos, the GM rolls 1d12, or spends Woe to choose.

d12	Time in the Kosmos
1	You return before you left. Avoid yourself.
2–4	The same hour.
5–7	A day for every hour.
8–9	A week has passed.
10	A season.
11	A year and a day.
12	Seven years. Your name is on a tomb.

Spend 1 Momentum to shift the result one row toward 2–4. The GM may spend 2 Woe to shift it one row down.

Debts

The hidden world runs on favours owed. When a fae, a Nephil or a Court grants you something, record a Debt: the creditor, and a weight from 1 to 3.

Weight	Typical favour
1	Directions, a meal, a night's safety, a small truth
2	A healing, a passage through the Veil, a lie told on your behalf
3	A life saved, a curse broken, a true name

- Calling a Debt. The creditor names a task. Do it and the Debt is cleared. Refuse and take forsworn-X (Pneuma), where X is twice the weight — and the creditor may do as it likes with you under the Concordat.
- Debts are property. They can be sold, traded and bought. Morrigna buys them from lesser fae to bring promising mortals under her hand.
- Hidden Debts. Eating faerie food, accepting a gift, or entering the Cottage of the Crones may create a Debt you did not know you took. The GM records it.

Knights and Mantles

A character may become a Court's Knight. The Mantle is a gift of borrowed power:

- one power tag fitting the Court (winter's edge, summer's wrath);
- the right to kill where the Queen cannot;
- one Woe-free Special per session from the Fae Specials (see Opposition);
- and a permanent weight-3 Debt the Queen may call once per session.

When the Knight dies, the Mantle goes home. Those who try to steal it in between are the Knight's real enemies.

Thresholds and Iron

- A home's threshold is a ward. Fae, Hounds and Strigoi need to be invited, or must pay 2 Woe to cross, and lose their Specials while inside unless invited. Lamiae cross freely but lose their Hunger-powers inside.
- Cold iron — iron worked by mortal smiths — is a weakness of the Court of Long Night. A cold-iron weapon is a killing method against its fae, and binds them where it is driven into the ground.

- The Burning Crown's weakness varies by sidhe. Make it something found: a midwinter ash, a frozen lake, a word.

The Free Folk at Home

A household can keep Free Folk — lares, kobolds, sprites — for regular offerings of milk, honeyed barley-bread and silver. Treat the household as a Bound Servant (core Adept ability) that any character can keep, but only in that home. Miss three offerings and it turns.

Chapter 9: The Blood-Drinkers

Four species, one name, no love lost. Each uses the Blood-Drinker kind in Opposition of the Hidden World plus its court traits here.

Common Rules

- Hard to Kill. Physical harm stops at tier 5 unless a killing method is used. At tier 5 the blood-drinker is broken (–2 on physical rolls).
- Feeding restores the blood-drinker: 1 tier of physical harm per feed.
- The Masquerade. All four Courts pass as human (except the Strigoi, who do not try). Unveiling one is a Discover at Hard, or automatic with Apokalypsis.

Enthralled

Enthralled is a Pneuma status inflicted by feeding or by saliva. While enthralled, acting against the master is one step harder per two tiers. At tier 6 you are a thrall: Taken Out, and an NPC until freed. Lytrosis and Vinculum Fractum clear it.

The Hounds of Set

- Feed on: blood. Their saliva is a narcotic: a bite inflicts enthralled-2 alongside harm. Cup-Slaves are tier 4 or more.
- Thirst-discipline. A Hound may refuse to feed when offered: compelling its hunger (1 Tychē) makes it lose face before its juniors.
- Thresholds paralyse them. A blessed doorway stops a duke.
- Killing methods: beheading; fire; a relic-blade; sunlight for the young.
- True face is a Horrifying exposure.

The House of Lamia

- Feed on: emotion, by Branch. Feeding inflicts hollowed (Pneuma); sustained feeding kills. Velthuri feeding also inflicts enthralled.
- Branch weaknesses (see the faction entry) are real: a Velthuri cannot touch one truly loved and loving; a Malvora is harmed by courage (+1 tier to any harm from a character who just Resisted fear); a Scaeva sickens before hope.
- Thresholds don't stop them, but inside a home they lose their Hunger-powers.
- The first feed is always fatal. A young Lamia fed upon before her first kill by one who loves her and is loved in return loses her Hunger for ever. Only House Velthuri knows.
- Killing methods: any lethal means once unveiled — they are the most mortal of the Courts. If Larth Caisra dies, they all die.

The Strigoi of Dacia

- Feed on: blood, with the strength of ten men.
- Weaknesses: sunlight (deadly to the young, weakening to the old); garlic; any consecrated object; they cannot cross thresholds uninvited; they must sleep in native earth.
- Killing methods: stake, behead and burn — all three, as Peri Strigōn teaches.
- Servants: thralls and darkhounds.

The Court of Jade

Breath

- Feed on: breath, at the width of a courtyard. A feeding inflicts breathless (Sōma) at range, no touch needed.
- Mien. An insult is a Debt of weight 3, and they always call it.
- Killing methods: unknown in the West. Let the players earn one.

Chapter 10: Oaths, Guest-Right and Parley

The Concordat's clauses are not etiquette. In play they are Truths with teeth.

Clause	At the table
Hospitality	Create the Truth Under My Roof. A host must protect any signatory guest; a guest must not harm the host.
Parley	Raise the white-and-black banner: Create the Truth Banner of Parley. No violence until it is lowered.
Duel	Signatories may settle a dispute by champion. Run a Fight between champions; the result binds both sides as an agreed outcome.
Weregild	Harm to non-combatants carries a price: a Debt of weight 1–3 owed to the injured party's faction.
Outside-Threat	Any signatory may demand any other's help against the Outer Dark. Refusing makes the refuser forsworn.
Mortal Sovereignty	Ruling openly is a breach. The other signatories may act against the breaker without Weregild.

Forsworn

Breaking guest-right, parley or a sworn oath inflicts forsworn-3 (Pneuma), and the oath-breaker's faction loses standing. While forsworn:

- other signatories owe you nothing under the Concordat;
- Fae and Courts may compel you once per scene as if they held your Debt;
- the status clears only when Weregild is paid, or a Queen forgives it.

Swearing an Oath

When a character swears a true oath — by a Seal, a Court, or a patron — write it as a power tag for as long as they keep it. Breaking it costs the tag, inflicts forsworn-3, and gives the GM 2 Woe.

Chapter 11: Conflicts of the Age

Scripted conflicts work as in the core rules. This setting renames some core types, removes Hack / Netwar, and adds five of its own.

Type	Disp.	Attack	Defend	Feint	Maneuver
Fight	Fight / Brawl	Fight / Brawl / Shoot	Athletics / Endure	Deceive	Notice / Stealth
Chase	Athletics / Ride	Athletics / Ride	Athletics / Ride	Stealth	Notice / Wayfaring
Argument	Persuade	Persuade	Will	Deceive	Empathy
Negotiation	Persuade	Persuade	Empathy	Deceive	Investigate
Infiltration	Stealth	Stealth / Mechanica	Deceive	Craft	Investigate
Battle	Letters	Fight	Endure	Deceive	Letters
Survive the Wild	Wayfaring	Wayfaring	Endure	—	Notice
Disputation	Letters	Letters / Persuade	Will	Deceive	Empathy
Contest of Names	Mysteria	Mysteria	Will	Deceive	Letters
Bargain	Persuade	Persuade	Will	Deceive	Empathy
Rite Against Rite	Mysteria	Mysteria	Endure	Deceive	Letters
Intrigue	Deceive / Persuade	Persuade / Intimidate	Empathy	Deceive	Investigate

Disputation

A formal debate before an audience — a council of bishops, the Academy, a Gothic king's hall. Its stakes are what the audience believes when it ends. Losing a Disputation before a church council can make you a heretic.

Contest of Names

This setting's Spirit Duel: two magi or a magus and a spirit, each trying to name and compel the other. Knowing the opponent's true name gives +1 on every action. The loser's compromise is usually enthralled, shaken or a Debt.

Bargain

Negotiation with something that does not need you: a fae lord, a Nephil, a Lamia matron. The side that loses its Disposition owes a Debt (weight 1–3, set by the compromise) as well as the normal outcome.

Rite Against Rite

Two Rites working against each other — a binding and a release, a ward and a summoning. Each side's Disposition is its Rite's clock: Attack removes the opponent's segments, Defend holds your own. When one side's clock empties, its Rite fails and the other completes.

Intrigue

Court politics run over days or weeks: each exchange is a week, a feast, a session of the Senate. Use the core rules for long conflicts. The prize is an office, a marriage, a verdict or a ruin.

Chapter 12: Scene Truths

These Truths join the core list. Create them with Momentum, Woe or Effects as the core rules allow.

Truth	Effect
Holy Ground (patron)	Hieratica of that patron +1 Power. Blood-drinkers who enter take shaken-2.
Threshold	See Thresholds and Iron. The uninvited must pay 2 Wœ to cross.
Thin Place	Crossing into the Veil is Standard. Rites here need 2 fewer segments. Dread +1 tier.
Cold Iron Present	Long Night fæ can't use Specials within reach of it.
Solstice Tide	The Stone Throne turns. The Court that holds it gains +1 on all rolls in the Veil.
Day of Blood	The eve of the vernal equinox. Mormo's rites need half the segments.
Witnessed by the Faithful	Magic in public is one step harder, and the Church hears of it.
Plague-Rot	Endure rolls are one step harder. Mormo's servants are +1 here.
Under My Roof	Guest-right. Harming host or guest makes the attacker forsworn-3.
Banner of Parley	No Attack actions. Breaking it makes the breaker forsworn-3.
The Lamps Gutter	Too much magic in one place. Mechanica rolls fail on doubles.
Veil-Fog	Sight is one step harder; resonance travel is Standard.
Drowned Shore	The Order of Dagon's ground. Hybrids +1; the sea is listening.
Marked by the Sign	The Yellow Sign is drawn here. Brotherhood workings +1 Power; Dread +1 tier.
Sigesis	A Gnostic silence. Hieratica can't detect anyone here; prayers go unheard.
Uneasy Nights	Region Truth from the Breach clock. Shared dreams; rest restores 1 less in each pool.

Chapter 13: Woe of the Hidden World

The GM's Woe buys these setting-specific spends as well as the core ones.

Spend	Wœ	Effect
The Lamps Gutter	1	Magic in the scene breaks a fine mechanism: a lamp, a lock, a water-clock.
The Harvest	1	A rite nearby takes 1 Pneuma from every character present.
Something Answers	2	A spirit, fæ or daimon arrives, interested, after any working.
Debt Called	2	A creditor calls a Debt now, at the worst moment.
Heretic!	2	Someone with authority accuses a character of heresy. Create the Truth Accused.
The Seal Groans	3	Tick the Breach clock once after a Seal is broken in the scene.
Time Slips	2	On leaving the Veil, shift the time table one row down.
The Recorder Watches	1	Eudokia — or something that sounds like her — knows what the party did.
The Congregation	2	A mob of the faithful arrives: a Minion group, Grit 3.
Thirst	1	A blood-drinker in the scene must feed or act on its hunger now.
Stylites Come	2	Tick the party's Stylites clock.
The Dark Leans In	2	A character at nemesion-4 or more acts for the Dark for one action.

Chapter 14: Opposition of the Hidden World

Rank	Grit	Best / Fair / Weak	Guard	Shrugs	Specials
Minion group	3	+4 / +2 / +0	+0	Bodies 3–6	1
Minor	3	+5 / +3 / +1	+0	0	1
Established	5	+6 / +4 / +2	+1	1	2
Great	8	+8 / +5 / +3	+2	2	3
Paramount	12	+10 / +7 / +4	+3	3	4

Passive opposition: Difficulty 12 + the relevant rating. Active: roll 2d12 + rating.

Build opposition with the light method used across 2d12 settings: NPCs have no pools. Their staying power is Grit, which is their share of Disposition in a conflict, and Shrugs, free Resists outside it. Woe buys their bonus dice and fuels their Specials.

Statblock Anatomy

- Grit — Disposition in a conflict. Threat equals Grit.
- Guard — added to Standard 15 when a PC's independent roll targets it.
- Shrugs — free Resists per scene (–2 tiers each). More cost 1 Woe.
- Armour — –1 tier of physical harm per point.
- Ratings — Attack, Defend, Feint, Maneuver and Other.
- Tags — power and weakness tags the PCs can Discover, burn and compel.
- Specials — Woe-fuelled tricks. Tell — the visible sign before its best move.
- Rank — sets every number; see the table above.

Roles

Brute (Attack; +1 Power on its first hit each exchange) · Shooter (Attack; a free die on its first Attack) · Bulwark (Defend; takes loss meant for an ally) · Skirmisher (Maneuver; a hit also costs 1 Disposition) · Controller (Maneuver; Create a Truth for 1 Woe once per scene) · Trickster (Feint; +2 Disposition from ambush) · Leader (Defend or Maneuver; minions +1).

Kinds

Mortal
Soldiers, cultists, Stylites, priests, mobs. Morale: minions and Minor mortals flee or surrender at half Bodies or when their leader falls. Can be talked to. Specials: Volley (2, area Attack) · Dirty Trick (1, Impede the target) · Call for Help (1 per minion) · Fanatic (0, ignores Morale) · Minor Working (1, a Significant working in one Domain).

Blood-Drinker
Hard to Kill and court traits (see The Blood-Drinkers). Specials: Feed (1, after a melee win add bled-2 or hollowed-2 and recover 1 tier) · Unnatural Strength (1, +1 Power) · Mesmerise (1, enthralled-2) · Fade (2, Create Deep Shadows and leave) · Flesh-Mask (0, passes as human until Discovered).

Fæ
Sidhe, Free Folk, Knights' fœs. Bound by bargains: a fæ cannot break its own given word. Can't kill outside its Court unless it is a Knight or the victim is bound by birth or Debt; it wounds, steals, enthrals. Specials: Glamour (1, Create a Truth of illusion) · Bargain Offered (0, offer a Debt for a benefit) · Winter's Edge / Summer's Wrath (1, +1 Power) · Step Sideways (2, into the Veil) · Call the Hunt (3, a Minion group of fæ).

Nephil
A god in masquerade. Grit is +2 for its Rank. Harvest: while it has a living cult, it recovers 1 Disposition at the start of each exchange. Can only be truly killed with a relic-blade or after it is unveiled and starved. Specials: Divine Presence (2, every PC Resists shaken-2) · Lend Power (1, a priest-ally gains +2 Power) · Mask (0, passes as human) · Wrath of the Altar (3, an area Attack while on holy ground).

Outer-Touched

Hybrids, Shoggoth-Born, the Reborn, things from beyond. Dread aura: first sight is an exposure of its Rank's tier (Minor 2, Established 3, Great 4, Paramount 5). Unnatural: Persuade and Argument don't work. Specials: Regenerate (1, recover 2 tiers) · Wrong Geometry (1, a PC Impeded) · Taint (1, a hit adds nemesion-1) · Engulf (2, a grapple that is also a Dread exposure).

Shade and Spirit

The dead, daimones, genii loci. Incorporeal: immune to ordinary physical harm; Mysteria, relics and consecrated things harm it. Specials: Possess (2, a Contest of Names to take a body) · Chill (1, numbed-2) · Whisper (1, a Dread exposure of tier 2) · Bound to Place (0, cannot leave its site).

Chapter 15: A Bestiary of the Year 500

Ready-to-run statblocks. Adjust Rank to taste.

Stylite of the Ash Cloak

Mortal · Established · Bulwark — Threat 5

Grit 5 · Guard +1 · Shrugs 1 · Armour 1
Attack +4 · Defend +6 · Feint +2 · Maneuver +4
Harm: cut-2 (oath-bound iron)
Power: oath-bound iron · trained against magi ·
Weak: follows the warrant to the letter
Specials: Interpose; Iron That Cuts Enchantment (1): its hit ends one ongoing working on the target.
Tell: plants its feet and draws the sword slowly.
Wants: the paranomos, alive if possible.

Cup-Slaves of Carthage

Mortal · Minion group · Brute — Threat 3

Grit 3 · Bodies 5
Attack +4 · Defend +2 · Feint +0 · Maneuver +2
Power: nothing left to lose · Weak: craves the master's bite
Specials: Fanatic.
Tell: glassy eyes, all turning at once.
Wants: to please the master; the next bite.

Jackal-Warden

Blood-Drinker (Hound) · Established · Brute — Threat 5

Grit 5 · Guard +1 · Shrugs 1 · Armour 1 (bronze mask)
Attack +6 · Defend +4 · Feint +2 · Maneuver +4
Harm: torn-3
Power: half-vampire strength · jackal-headed bronze · Weak: stopped by blessed thresholds
Specials: Heavy Hitter; Feed (1); Unnatural Strength (1).
Tell: the mask tilts as if listening.
Wants: captives for the latifundia.

Tarquinia of House Velthuri

Blood-Drinker (Lamia) · Great · Trickster — Threat 8

Grit 8 · Guard +2 · Shrugs 2
Attack +3 · Defend +5 · Feint +8 · Maneuver +5
Harm: enthralled-2 or hollowed-3
Power: indistinguishable from a patrician · owns the magistrate · thralls in every house · Weak: cannot touch the truly loved · shamed by open violence
Specials: Mesmerise (1); Feed (1); A Word in the Right Ear (2): Create the Truth The Authorities Are Hers.
Tell: she laughs softly and touches her ring.
Wants: a rival humiliated; never a fight.

Strigoi of the Scourge

Blood-Drinker (Strigoi) · Great · Brute — Threat 8

Grit 8 · Guard +2 · Shrugs 2 · Armour 1
Attack +8 · Defend +5 · Feint +3 · Maneuver +5
Harm: crushed-3
Power: strength of ten men · centuries of paranoia · darkhounds · Weak: sunlight · consecrated objects · native earth
Specials: Heavy Hitter; Unnatural Strength (1); Feed (1).
Tell: candles dim and the owl outside goes silent.
Wants: to stay hidden; to feed; to remember.

The Redcap

Fae (Long Night) · Established · Skirmisher — Threat 5

Grit 5 · Guard +1 · Shrugs 1
Attack +4 · Defend +4 · Feint +2 · Maneuver +6
Harm: cut-3
Power: cap dyed in fresh blood · iron-shod boots of his own · Weak: cold iron · a scripture read aloud
Specials: Hit and Run; Winter's Edge (1); Step Sideways (2).
Tell: the drip of the cap quickens.
Wants: to wet his cap again.

Crowned of the Land

Outer-Touched (Dagon hybrid) · Established · Leader — Threat 5

Grit 5 · Guard +1 · Shrugs 1
Attack +4 · Defend +6 · Feint +4 · Maneuver +4
Harm: drowned-2
Power: the whole village owes him · the sea answers · Weak: changing; can't hide it in daylight · the Burning Crown's grudge
Specials: Command; Call the Tide (2): Create the Truth Drowned Shore.
Tell: his throat moves as if swallowing water.
Wants: the outsiders gone, or married into the family.

Brotherhood Mystes

Mortal · Established · Controller — Threat 5

Grit 5 · Guard +1 · Shrugs 1
Attack +4 · Defend +2 · Feint +4 · Maneuver +6
Harm: unmoored-2
Power: a syllable of Black Speech · fanatics around him · Weak: needs the rite completed by dawn
Specials: Shape the Ground; Minor Working (1, Domain the Crawling Mist); Speak the Syllable (2): +2 Power, and the Breach clock ticks.

Tell: his lips move without sound.
Wants: the stars right and the circle closed.

Shoggoth-Born

Outer-Touched · Great · Brute — Threat 8

Grit 8 · Guard +2 · Shrugs 2
Attack +8 · Defend +5 · Feint — · Maneuver +5
Harm: dissolving-3
Power: too many mouths · flows through cracks ·
Weak: Magia fire · obeys its keeper
Specials: Regenerate (1); Engulf (2); Taint (1).
Tell: the floor shines wetly.
Wants: to guard its keeper. Hungry.

Reborn Goats of the Mother

Outer-Touched · Minion group · Brute — Threat 3

Grit 3 · Bodies 4
Attack +4 · Defend +2 · Feint — · Maneuver +2
Power: frenzied madness · horns and hooves ·
Weak: obey any priest of Mormo
Specials: Pack Tactics.
Tell: bleating that sounds like laughter.
Wants: the Day of Blood.

Mercurianus of Antioch

Nephil (Hermes) · Paramount · Leader — Threat 14

Grit 14 · Guard +3 · Shrugs 3
Attack +4 · Defend +7 · Feint +10 · Maneuver +7
Harm: rarely his own hands
Power: the bank holds every debt in Antioch · messenger-swift · a god's patience · Weak: Starving; no cult left · loves a clever bargain
Specials: Mask; Divine Presence (2); Bargain Offered; Every Road Is Mine (2): leave any scene by any door.
Tell: he counts coins without looking.
Wants: to stay retired, and very rich.

Hypatia's Shade

Shade · Great · Controller — Threat 8

Grit 8 · Guard +2 · Shrugs 2
Attack +3 · Defend +5 · Feint +5 · Maneuver +8
Harm: unmoored-2
Power: the Old Seat obeys her · the Second Seal ·
Weak: bound to the Old Seat · cannot forgive the Inner Seal
Specials: Bound to Place; Whisper (1); Shape the Ground.
Tell: stars move on the ceiling.
Wants: the truth of her death told — or the seal kept, if she is more Seat than woman.

Part 4
Appendices

Chapter 1: Glossary

- Akosmoi, Daimones — "the un-worlded ones"; the Outer Ones.
- Anabasis — the Gnostic ascent through the archons; Yeshua's praxis.
- Apokryphon — (1) the Veiled Sphere; (2) the Gnostic Apokryphon.
- Breach clock — the campaign clock of how thin the walls have grown.
- Concord, the — the Concord of the Seven Seals; the wizards' council.
- Concordat, the — the treaty among hidden powers, sealed 287 BC.
- Debt — a favour owed to a hidden power, weight 1–3.
- Drujān — "the Lies"; Persian name for the Outer Ones.
- Edged Seal — the nine relic-blade bearers of the Stylites.
- Enthralled — the status of a blood-drinker's or sorcerer's thrall.
- Exōthen — the Outer Dark.
- Favour — a priest's standing with a patron; spent on Hieratica.
- Forsworn — the status of an oath-breaker.
- Free Folk — fae of neither Court.
- Goeteia — fast, name-binding sorcery of the papyri.
- Hieratica — priestly magic: borrowed power from a patron's harvest.
- Honestiores, humiliores — the honoured and the humble under Roman law.
- Hoi Exō — "those outside"; the Outer Ones.
- Kosmos — the mortal sphere.
- Magia — the fire-and-word of the Mobedān.
- Mobedān — the Zoroastrian magi of Persia.
- Mysteria — the skill of magic and rite.
- Nemesion — the Outer taint.
- Nephilim — the half-divine children of the Watchers; the old gods.
- Paranomos — a lawbreaker magus.
- Pneuma — breath and will; the potential the gods harvest.
- Sigesis — the Gnostic silence that hides one from Yahweh.
- Stylite — an ash-cloaked enforcer of the Concord.
- Sword of Damocles — probation for a first-time Seal-breaker.
- Theurgy — Neoplatonic ritual magic; the Concord's art.
- Twilight Courts — Long Night and the Burning Crown.
- Veiled Sphere — the spirit world.
- Watchers — the Egrēgoroi, fathers of the Nephilim.
- Woe — the GM's pool.

Chapter 2: Quick Reference

Five Campaign Truths

The Gods Are Hungry · Names Have Power · The Seals Are Walls · Thresholds and Oaths Hold · The Dark Is Patient.

Breaking a Seal

GM +2 Woe · Breach +1 (VII: +3) · nemesion-1 (VII: –2) · Stylites clock ticks if noticed.

Workings

Cantrip 12 · Operation 15–21 · Theurgy 24 as a Rite. 1 Pneuma (Dabbler 2). Outside Domain: one step harder, 2 Pneuma, any doubles backlash.

Rites

Clock 6 / 8 / 12. Untrained +4 segments. Thin Place –2. Kyphi +1 on the first roll.

Offerings

Own blood: –2 Sōma, +1 die · Animal: +1 segment per success, +1 Woe · Willing life: +3, Seal I, nemesion-1 · Unwilling life: +4, Seals I and IV, nemesion-2, +3 Woe.

Patron States

Starving (one step harder) · Waning · Steady · Waxing (+1 Power) · Bloated (+1 Power; doubles: no answer).

Dread

Shaken (Pneuma) for fear · unmoored (Psychē) for knowledge. Tiers 1–6 by exposure. Familiar horror –1 tier.

Debts

Weight 1–3. Refuse a called Debt: forsworn at twice the weight.

Stations

Outcast · Servile · Common · Lettered · Honoured.

Chapter 3: Design Notes

This book is built on the Version 2 core. The Version 1 archive was used as inspiration. Here is where its ideas went.

Version 1	Version 2 in this book
Cultures and culture talents	A cultural sphere plus one Origin tag that replaces a Playbook tag
Social class (Outcast to Noble)	Stations, each with a trait and a burden, using Roman honestiores and humiliores
Backgrounds and roles	Concept lists under Playbooks of the Age
Magic paths: Traditional, Research, Dabbler	Initiate, Scholar and Dabbler paths on top of the Adept
Spell categories and miscasts	Adept Domains, scope Difficulties and the Backlash table
Ritual magic, requirements and sacrifice	Rites as progress clocks with Offerings
Celtic, Saxon and Christian magic drafts	Druidry and the Northern Arts; Christian power as Hieratica
Conan and Cthulhu sorcery	Gœteia and the Black Speech
Sanity and madness tables	Dread statuses, the Madness table and Nemesion
Six attributes including Fortune	The four core pools; Fortune is Tychē

Canon Notes

- The setting bible and faction references are canon. Where the bible calls Yahweh both a Nephil and a Watcher, this book follows its later and more specific statement: he is a Watcher, as are Set, Ahura Mazda and Cthulhu.
- Patron pool states are this book's rules reading of the bible's descriptions.
- Adventure hooks are left to the setting bible and the hooks file.